

An important addition to knowledge of our county's extraordinary history: Unconquered – The Story of Kent and its Lieutenancy, is being offered to schools at the special price of £30. I believe the book will be of interest to your school and schools across Kent.

This well written and colourful account gives a 500-year view of the county's history and the distinctive part Kent has played in our country's development.

It will, I believe, be of interest and benefit to many young people in Kent to know more of their country's history. I attach a flyer for you which sets out details on how you can place an order, if you so wish.

Yours sincerely,

Roger Gough

Member for Darent Valley

Cabinet Member for Education and Health Reform

ATTENTION ALL SCHOOLS

UNCONQUERED – The Story of Kent and its Lieutenancy

Tracing the dramatic 500-year history of Kent from Tudor times to the present day is Unconquered – The Story of Kent and its Lieutenancy, now available to schools at the special price of £30.

This unique book, extensively illustrated in full colour, is the United Kingdom's first ever in-depth history of a County and its Lieutenancy

Unconquered, published by The Allan Willett Foundation, tells how the Lieutenancy organised the Frontline County's defence from pre-Armada days and how it evolved to keep alive the indomitable Spirit of Kent that has carried its citizens through good and bad times to the present day.

The Lord Lieutenant is Her Majesty The Queen's official representative in the County and is helped by Deputy Lieutenants across Kent and Medway. Among them is the author, David McDine, a former Government chief information officer, who has produced this fascinating story after years of careful research. An extraordinary cast of characters – soldiers, statesmen and rakes among them – enlivens its 276 pages – and is it as entertaining as it is informative.

Young people are being encouraged to learn more about the County where they live, and Viscount De L'Isle, the present Lord Lieutenant of Kent, believes this ground-breaking publication is a valuable resource for National Curriculum citizenship studies and a useful reference work for school classroom and libraries.

He regards it as essential reading for everyone who loves our County and would like to know more about this important but hitherto largely ignored area of its history.

Copies cost £30 each plus £5 postage and packing. For further information and orders, please contact Jan@allanwillett.org; telephone 01227 738800 (Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays only).

Any profit will be distributed by The Allan Willett Foundation to mainly Kentish and medical charities